Tips on Protecting Yourself from Identity Theft

Why should you care about preventing Identity theft?
According to the Justice Department’s Bureau of Justice Statistics an estimated 16.6 million people (7 percent of all persons age 16 or older in the US) experienced at least one incident of identity theft in 2012. In the same year, financial losses due to personal identity theft totaled $24.7 billion, over $10 billion more than the losses attributed to all other property crimes. Once your identity is stolen it could take months to recover. Here are some tips to help prevent identity theft.

• Treat your social security number as confidential information and do not give it out to anyone unless it is absolutely required. And never, ever over the phone.

• When on the internet and providing information, such as login-in passwords or credit card numbers for purchases, make sure the site has a padlock symbol to the left of the address and the address starts with “https”. This means the data is encrypted when sent and protected from web trolls.

• Never use the same password for all your internet sites, especially bank and sites storing your personal or credit card data. This way, if one site is compromised, they all will not be. Also make your password long and complex enough as not to be guessed easily. Use a mix of CAPS and lower case, numbers, and symbols for passwords.

• Invest in a good shredder to destroy paper documents with confidential information on them such as bank account statements and credit card statements. Also, use the shredder to destroy medical records you do not want to keep.

• When paying bills by check, put the envelopes directly into a USPS mail box or slot at the post office. Thieves can steal checks from your mailbox and use them to obtain your account ID and can remake the checks to themselves.

• Watch for scam emails promising a large sum of money. All they really want is access to your bank account numbers. If it sounds too good to be true, it always is.

• Scam artists will “phish” for victims over the phone, in e-mails and in the regular mail by pretending to be banks, stores or government agencies. Do not respond to any request to verify your account login/number or password. Real legitimate companies do not request this information in this way. If you suspect a scam, report it to the company/agency.

• Always keep all your credit card receipts and compare them to your statements. Report suspected fraudulent usage to your credit card company as soon as you can.

• When notified by a credit card company, phone company or other company that their accounts were compromised, take advantage of any free credit monitoring service they offer. If you have not been offered a free subscription, consider subscribing to one yourself.

• Purchase a reputable virus scan program for your computer/tablet and keep your subscription up-to-date. Not only will this prevent viruses on your computer but will help prevent identity theft through prevention of key-logging software and the introduction of redirecting web site programs designed to steal your confidential information.

Web Sites to Help Your Data Secure

The suggestions above are only some of the things you can do to protect your identity from being stolen. Stay educated on the latest methods, schemes, and scams thieves employ by staying informed. Use these sites to help in your effort to stay in the know about keeping your identity secure.

• ncpc.org/topics/fraud-and-identity-theft - Tips and videos on preventing identity theft.

This year is Cupertino’s 100th anniversary. We were incorporated as a city in 1955. A delegation from Cupertino is visiting Copertino, Italy in September and October this year. Every year students and newcomers to our lovely town ask for information on how Cupertino got its name. Cupertino’s first and foremost historian, Louis E. Stocklmeir, wrote extensively about the name and its possible beginnings. The following is an excerpt from a paper Louis wrote about the fascinating origins of our town name:

"The name used to designate the arroyo by the early Spanish explorers of what is now known as Stevens (formerly Cupertino) Creek was “Arroyo de San Joseph Cupertino”. This arroyo was named (by De Anza expedition diarist and cartographer Petrus Font) after Saint Joseph of Cupertino, born at Cupertino (Italy) diocese of Nardo June 17, 1603. Family name Desa. Beatified 1767. Canonized 1767.

"Copertino" a present day town in southern Italy is situated in the heel of the "Italian boot" in the region of Puglia, province of Lecce, about 90 miles from Bari and 50 miles from Taranto. Some of our local writers endeavor to relate its derivation to the Italian noun "Coperto" literally translated to mean "cover", "wrapper", "jacket". The "u" in Cupertino is attributed to the Latin influence.

The northern and southern regions of Italy were subjected to a great number of invasions and conquests; notably Hannibal (circa 200 B.C.) who conquered the Iberian Peninsula, crossed the Alps and defeated Roman armies in Italy - his conquest ended when he was later defeated by the Romans. Historians wrote of a citadel or fortress built to resist Hannibal, part of which remains, in the vicinity of "Copertino". The citadel ruins were razed in 1415 A.D. to allow the erection of the Convent of San Francisco alongside the Greek church of St. Nicholas. The area was in turn invaded by the Byzantines and Normans at different times. Other early invaders included Henry the 4th, Emperor of Germany, King of Puglia and Sicily, the Anjous who were allied with the Prince of Albania - later on, the Aragonese (Spaniards) and still later, Garibaldi, who unified modern Italy. As a consequence of these early invasions, the names "Cupertino" and "Copertino" reach far back into Italy’s history.

All Latin inscriptions spell "Cupertino" with a "u", also ending the word with "i". Several tombs and epigraphs of the region bear inscriptions with the name of the dignitary and the place name, "Cupertino".

"Copertino" seems to be a word of later origin. "Cupertino" predates the word "Copertino", hence the reference to San Joseph of "Cupertino" and the spelling of the name by Father Pedro Font. It would seem that our City’s appellation of "Cupertino" follows the original name given to the area now named "Copertino" - the words are synonymous and distinctive and fittingly applied to their respective localities. (Conclusion of Stocklmeir’s account)

Reaching back over the centuries, it is evident the name of our town has a fascinating and varied history. It would be interesting to hear from any of our "ROOTS" readers who have traveled to the Cupertino/Copertino region of Italy.

"Share Discovery Through Travel"
Cupertino Household Hazardous Waste Collection Program

Have you found your garage shelves full of old solvents, automotive fluids, fertilizers, or pesticides that you no longer use? Have you learned a new way to clean using less toxic substances like lemon juice or vinegar and have a surplus of unused household cleaners? Do you wonder how you can gain some extra shelf space in your garage or interior kitchen cabinets? The City of Cupertino has a solution to your dilemma! Through our franchise agreement with Recology, the City offers a door-to-door Household Hazardous Waste (HHW) collection program that will accept many different types of HHW that cannot be disposed of in the garbage.

Through the Waste Management At-Your-Door Collection Program, you can schedule an appointment for an HHW collection crew to come to your home and collect the material for safe disposal. While not all products are eligible for the program, many common items are.

Examples of waste that can be collected are:

• Automotive: antifreeze, brake fluid, wax, gasoline, hydraulic fluid, batteries, oiled rags (in a separate plastic bag)
• Paint products: latex or acrylic paint, thinners, caulk, spray paint, wood sealers
• Household Cleaners: ammonia, drain cleaner, tile cleaner, floor stripper
• Garden Chemicals: pesticides, fertilizers, herbicides, fungicides, pool chemicals
• Mercury Items: thermostats, thermometer, smoke detectors
• Flammables and Combustibles: propane gas cylinders (under five gallons), kerosene, solvents
• Miscellaneous: hypodermic syringes (in sealed, rigid, puncture resistant container), hobby glue, electronic waste, fire extinguishers

How do you participate?

• Schedule your appointment by calling the Waste Management Customer Service Hotline at 800.449.7587, Monday-Friday between 5 am - 5 pm or on-line at wmatyourdoor.com

What happens next?

• You will be mailed a kit containing a bag and a zip tie to secure the contents inside the bag. Any unlabeled materials will need to be marked identifying what they are so they can be safely transported and disposed. Unlabeled and unmarked items are not accepted due to safety and handling reasons. Some items are acceptable outside of the bag such as fire extinguishers, televisions, VCRs, or computers.

• Collections are currently conducted each Tuesday, so all materials need to be placed on the front porch by 7 am on your scheduled collection day. Under no circumstances may the items be placed for collection at the curb or garbage collection area.

How much will this service cost me?

There is no separate cost to use the program.

How often can I use the program?

When you schedule your appointment, the customer service representative will determine the number of bags needed for the collection. In most cases, between one and three bags will be sufficient. If additional bags are needed, an additional collection day will be scheduled. There is no limit on how many times the program can be used, however it is for household hazardous waste from Cupertino residents only.

What more can you do to manage household hazardous waste?

The single most important action we can take in managing waste of any type, including household hazardous waste is to practice source control. This refers to making deliberate choices about the products we purchase and asking is this necessary, is there a less toxic alternative, is the quantity more than I need, and is there a suitable way for me to dispose of what is unused?

Another solution is to learn about product stewardship and Extended Producer Responsibility (EPR). EPR is “a strategy to place a shared responsibility for end-of-life product management on the producers, and all entities involved in the product chain, instead of the general public; while encouraging product design changes that minimize a negative impact on human health and the environment at every stage of the product’s lifecycle.”1 EPR provides a pathway to address end-of-life product management for the consumer and will reduce the amount of toxic materials that enter our landfills or are dumped illegally in our communities.

For more information about the City of Cupertino’s At-Your-Door HHW Collection Program, please contact the Cupertino Environmental Programs Division at 408.777.3255 or via email at environmental@cupertino.org.

October 17, 2015

The Cupertino Citizen Corps (CCC) holds a city-wide drill each year to sharpen their skills and to test out procedures that will be needed in an emergency, such as a large earthquake. This year’s drill is scheduled for Saturday, October 17 and will take the pulse of the city in a three hour assessment of neighborhoods and important infrastructure. The drill will take place at the Monta Vista Emergency Reporting Station (ARK) located at the Monta Vista Fire station 22620 Stevens Creek Blvd, Cupertino, CA 95014 and begin at 8:30 am. If you can’t devote a full three hours to the drill please come out anyway as there are smaller assignments that need to be done as well.

Participants will be put into teams and tasked with going out into the neighborhoods looking for damage (simulated) and reporting their findings back to the ARK.
