Summer is here. And that means lots of sun, and much less rain. Even with all of the rain the Bay Area received this year, water conservation is still as important as ever. Switching out your lawn for an array of drought-tolerant plants that thrive off very little water is one of the best ways you can help conserve water around your home and lower your bills.

The City of Cupertino has created its very own drought-tolerant garden around City Hall to highlight the variety of options available.

Take a walk around the garden and see first-hand how beautiful a water-wise garden can be. Read about the importance of natives, perennials, and pollinators, and learn the names of the plants we have growing in our garden.

While you are walking around you can take out your smart phone, visit cupertino.org/demogarden, and follow along with the interactive map. Learn about how to care for each plant, discover how tall they may grow, see pictures, and more!

Saving water doesn’t have to mean looking at something dull and brown all year long. By choosing plants that thrive off less water, you can have a vibrant, green, colorful garden all year long!
The summer season means more fun in the sun, but as the weather gets warmer, be sure to take precautions for you and your family’s safety. Stay cool this summer, and beat the heat! Follow these tips from the Santa Clara County Fire and Public Health Departments, and the ASPCA.

Barbecues and Grills
Make sure grills are at least 10 feet from your house. Only use an approved starter fluid when lighting, never gasoline, and never add fuel after the fire has been started. Dispose of hot coals only after they have completely cooled. Keep matches and lighters in a safe place, away from children.

Pets
Some symptoms of overheating in pets includes excessive panting or difficulty breathing, increased heart rate, drooling, mild weakness, stupor, or even collapse. Be aware of pets with flat faces, as they are more susceptible to overheating. Make sure pets have a shady place to rest, don’t over-exercise them, and give them plenty of fresh, clean water. Don’t let pets linger on hot asphalt during walks, and keep them indoors in extreme heat.

Protecting Yourself from Heat-Related Illness
Avoid the heat—stay indoors in air-conditioned buildings, or rest in shady areas. Wear lightweight clothes, sunglasses or a wide-brimmed hat, and sunscreen. Limit your physical activity, cool off by taking a bath or shower, and make sure to keep drinking plenty of water.

Automobiles
Always check the back seat when leaving your vehicle, and never leave children or pets unattended. Be aware of the metal in your vehicle that may have been exposed to the sun to avoid burns. If your vehicle overheats, do not remove the radiator cap until you are sure the engine has cooled down, and use a rag when removing the cap. Keep tools and other emergency equipment in your vehicle, including a fire extinguisher.

Stay up-to-date on heat-related alerts and other important information by signing up for AlertSCC at alertscc.com. AlertSCC is a free, easy, and confidential way for anyone who lives or works in Santa Clara County to get emergency warnings sent directly to their cell phone, mobile device, email, or landline.
Fitness, Flora & Fun: The Many Benefits of Parks and Recreation
July is National Park and Recreation Month, a time to acknowledge and commemorate the innumerable ways that parks, open spaces, recreation facilities, programs, and events benefit the community every day. Cupertino’s Parks & Recreation Department has endless opportunities for summer fun and wellness. The Department has been developing programs since 1962, and has evolved with three main areas of focus: Health and Wellness, Conservation, and Social Equity.

Recreation and physical exercise have countless health and wellness benefits. It contributes to reducing blood pressure, increasing HDL or “good” cholesterol, and strengthening the immune system. Spending time outdoors also promotes positive mental health, and can reduce stress and depression, improve self-esteem, and even increase focus and boost academic performance.

Conservation, environmental protection, and sustainability are some of the Parks & Recreation Department’s primary responsibilities. The Department is committed to protecting and setting aside open spaces for parks natural environments. As a result, the community gets to enjoy the beauty of natural open spaces, and engage with plants and wildlife.

Regular access to parks, trails, and open spaces can provide greater personal and spiritual growth, and increase quality of life. Cupertino is dedicated to ensuring all community members have access to open spaces and recreation services. Recreation provides everyone, regardless of age or condition, a healthier and happier life. Indeed, the term “Recreation” can be defined as to “Re” “Create” oneself. Parks, trails, and natural areas make our lives more fulfilling, more interesting, and when we engage with the outdoors, we live longer!

Whether you’re strolling down a sunny trail, playing with your family on the playground, enjoying the nature and wildlife in open spaces, or getting involved with your community through recreation programs, you can find countless ways to celebrate National Park and Recreation Month this July.

For a list of activities and events this July and the rest of summer, visit cupertino.org/events.
