The Cupertino Bicycle Pedestrian Commission (BPC) and Cupertino Library, in conjunction with the Silicon Valley Bicycle Coalition (SVBC) and many other community BPCs, are encouraging commuters and students to leave their cars at home and join tens of thousands of their fellow Bay Area residents in biking to work or school.

Once again this year, the Cupertino BPC will set up an Energizer Station in front of the Quinlan Community Center at 10185 North Stelling Road, operating from 6:30 - 9 am, serving both coffee and food while dispensing information and encouragement to all passing cyclists.

New for this year, the Cupertino Library will set up an Energizer Station in Cali Mill Plaza at the corner of De Anza and Stevens Creek Boulevards from 7 - 10 am stocked with edible goodies and refreshments.

Bike to Work Day (BTWD) is a community event that encourages residents to try bicycling as their mode of transportation to get healthy exercise while relieving traffic congestion, improving air quality, reducing petroleum consumption, and saving money.

SVBC coordinates BTWD for Santa Clara and San Mateo Counties. Bay Area-wide BTWD contests challenge groups of cyclists to form teams and submit records of their bike commuting during National Bike Month, which is the month of May. Information can be found at bikesiliconvalley.org/btwd/, the SVBC website. Check the 511 website at bicycling.511.org/ for information to help map bike routes to work.

Cupertino had a very successful BTWD last year with a count of 241 cyclists pedaling past the Quinlan Community Center Energizer Station, of which more than 90 stopped for coffee and a chat about their commute.

The person selected will serve from October 2013 - September 2015, the second in the City to officially promote the wonderful world of poetry and other literary forms to Cupertino’s diverse population. David Denny is serving through September as Cupertino’s first Poet Laureate.

Pick up applications at the City Hall Reception Desk, or the Reference Desk of the Cupertino Public Library, Quinlan Community Center, Senior Center, De Anza College, and other places throughout the city or visit cupertino.org/poetlaureate. Applications are due to City Hall by 5 pm, July 26, 2013. Through personal presentations and hosted educational events, the Poet Laureate will introduce youth and adults to the benefits of personal and community expression, calling attention to our City, its incredible variety of cultures, and history. Our first-rate Library will continue to host poetry events, as will other Cupertino locations, throughout the year.

Folks with disabilities and candidates fluent in languages in addition to English, are encouraged to apply, though poem samples must be submitted in English. Applicants must have resided or worked in Cupertino for at least two consecutive years, have published or been recognized as a poet, and be at least 21 years old.

Setting criteria, publicizing, interviewing and recommending candidates to the City Council falls to the Cupertino Poet Laureate Selection Committee. The members are Adrian Kolb, chair, and Ann Stevenson from the Cupertino Library Commission; Thomas Ray, the Dean of Language Arts at De Anza College; Kathy Stakey, The Friends of the Cupertino Library; Roz Davis, Library Foundation; Deborah Vanni, English Teacher in the Fremont Union High School District; Dave Denny, current Poet Laureate, and Beverly Lenihan, from the Library Foundation are ad hoc members; Ron Miller, past Selection Committee Chair is a resource to the Committee. For more information contact poetlaureate@cupertino.org or visit cupertino.org/poetlaureate.

Will You Be Ready For The Next Earthquake?

There is probably one happening today, in fact, there are several thousand earthquakes worldwide and about 60 every day in California. It's hard to believe, but it is true. Most earthquakes are below 2.5 in magnitude and generally cannot be felt by humans. You should really be concerned about the next BIG earthquake. With the density of population in Cupertino and expensive expansive infrastructures, large earthquakes pose a risk to our lives and community. With all that risk, it is time to get educated about earthquakes. Are you ready?

Earthquakes happen along fault lines or cracks in the earth’s mantle or shell where large sections of the earth are either slowly grinding together sideways, or slowly moving under one another. Of course there is resistance and every so often, it moves suddenly. This creates an earthquake. The earthquake is measured in terms of magnitude and intensity. Magnitude is measured by sensitive instruments called Seismograms. Magnitude is the size of the earthquake at its source and intensity is the effect which varies by location. In the Richter scale, an increase of one unit of magnitude (from 4.0 to 5.0) means a 10-fold increase in the size of the earthquake.

There are plenty of good sources of earthquake information on the internet, but the best source I found for current information is the United States Geological Survey site (USGS).

You can look at recent earthquakes at: http://earthquake.usgs.gov/earthquakes/recenteqsus/ or explore the Cupertino area fault lines at: http://geohazards.usgs.gov/qfaults/ca/California.php or view interactive shake maps at http://quake.abag.ca.gov/shaking/ (this one is fun!) or to simply learn more go to: http://earthquake.usgs.gov/learn/

What If a Large Earthquake Hits

Your first priority during an earthquake is to stay safe. The USGS website has this advice.

If you are indoors, DROP to the ground; take COVER by getting under a sturdy table or other piece of furniture; and HOLD ON until the shaking stops. If there isn’t a table or desk near you, cover your face and head with your arms and crouch in an inside corner of the building. Stay away from glass, windows, outside doors and walls, and anything that could fall, such as lighting fixtures or furniture. Stay in bed if you are there when the earthquake strikes. Hold on and protect your head with a pillow, unless you are under a heavy light fixture that could fall. In that case, move to the nearest safe place. Stay inside until the shaking stops and it is safe to go outside. If you attempt to go outside while it is shaking, you risk falling down or getting hit by falling debris.

If you are outdoors, stay there. Move away from buildings, streetlights, and utility wires. Once in the open, stay there until the shaking stops. Again, the greatest danger is from falling debris.

If you are in a moving vehicle, stop as quickly as safety permits and stay in the vehicle. Avoid stopping near or under buildings, trees, overpasses, and utility wires. Proceed cautiously once the earthquake has stopped.

Have a Communications Plan

Phones may not work after an earthquake or may be overloaded. Everyone wants to call family and relatives at the same time. Out of area calls will get precedence so have an out-of-area contact such as a family member, and give them a list of others who may be calling them. Let all your family and friends know that this is going to be your main person for information after an earthquake or other disaster and that everyone should contact them.

Also, cell phones may not work but hard wired phones (not cable or internet phones) and pay phone booths may work, so keep some quarters handy for pay phones. Also, it is better to send a text message as it is more likely to make it through if lines are clogged. If you don’t know how to text, have a teenager show you how, or consult your cell phone company for text message instructions before you need it.

In 1975, I took my two daughters, aged 12 and 11, up Mt. Eden Road in the Saratoga foothills, to visit a grand old lady – the Garrod family matriarch - Emma S. Garrod. After a lively visit, with many stories, Emma gave us a signed copy of the book she had written about her life in the mountains when they were wild and somewhat wooly in the early 1900’s.

Her book, entitled “One Life, Mine” is probably one of the best reminiscences and cultural histories of the early days in the last century. The Garrod family property has survived into the present, as a family run winery and vineyards with a renowned riding stable and horse boarding facility - one of the very few family ranch properties to survive the 20th century onslaught of post WWII development and explosion of high-tech complexes.

For anyone interested in the common, everyday living experiences of a woman and period of time that seems foreign to our modern way of life, Emma’s book is a treasure. She explains her days and the era she lives in with poignant clarity - as a motherless young woman, with two sisters, trying to work as hard as possible on the ranch and trying to please her demanding and autocratic father. She did a man’s work without complaint and when things between them grew unworkable, her father demanded that she leave and make her own way. So she did, moving to San Francisco, going to Heald’s Business College with her meager savings and working - sometimes for 10 cents a day.

After the 1906 Earthquake and several jobs and mishaps later - in 1916, at the age of 30 and nearly resigned to being an old maid forever... Emma Stolte married. In her book, she describes herself... “Now here I was thirty odd years old with a goodly number of years of housekeeping, farm work and what not to my credit; no different than any innocent sixteen year old, preparing to embark on the matrimonial sea. I had long been accustomed to having some wag introduce as “the best preserved antique on the shelf so long, you are dusty.”

Emma describes how widowers with grown families had never appealed to her (as potential suitors) and the single men that did appeal to her had wanted her to go to faraway places like Alaska, Canada or the (Hawaiian) Islands. Then she says that this time it was “different.” She describes her future husband as “straight and dependable.”

Vince Garrod was an eldest son, partly responsible for the family farm, a 65 acre property in the Saratoga foothills. She describes her marriage plans - hers, Vince’s and her father’s. “Now we had three different points of view: I said, let us be married by a justice of the peace, as I have no hard and fast religious convictions nor any church affiliations.” Vince said, “We will be married by an Episcopal minister. That has always been my faith. I wouldn’t feel right about being married any other way.”

Emma’s father said, “Now see here my girl - both your sisters had their weddings away from home, the way they wanted. I’m not letting you get away with anything like that, whether you choose a justice of the peace or an Episcopal minister is your affair, settle it between you. You will be married here at home, invite relatives, friends and neighbors and have a real jollification.”

Emma’s next comment is...”Guess who won.”

Emma and Vince took a very dusty trip over the mountains on the graveled, newly completed Santa Cruz Highway, to obtain their marriage license (as Emma’s home was in S.Cruz County in the mts.). She handwrote all the invitations and one neighbor - a lady of whom she was fond - responded and exclaimed, “Good Lord, I’d rather go to your funeral than your wedding! Marriage is a delusion anyway you look at it!” So the neighbor was not invited and she was deeply offended. Emma remarked that this lady would not be able to come to Emma’s funeral as her own took place some years hence.

A hundred guests came and the minister was described as a “frail, little man who looked as though his greatest need was for someone to say “rest a bit while I untangle some of life’s problems for you and ease the load generally.” The guests dined on cold, roast pork and potato salad with wine and coffee and the pork was good.

Vince’s father and young cousin came to the wedding. His mother stayed home for this strange reason -her own mother had not attended any of her children’s weddings, so neither would she attend Vince and Emma’s wedding. Thus Emma began her life as a ranch wife and eventually mother to three children - Louise, Vince and Dick. Emma’s descriptions of her in-laws, especially her mother-in-law, are in the tradition of fun family stories.

Her book contains vivid stories of the many aspects of ranch life, her early working years in San Francisco, the 1906 Earthquake, and stories of city and mountain neighbors, dances and colorful mountain characters.

Use Reusable Bags in Cupertino

Starting October 1, 2013 retail stores in Cupertino will no longer be allowed to distribute disposable, thin plastic carryout bags. Recycled paper bags may be distributed by retailers with a minimum charge of ten cents per bag. This bag charge will increase to twenty-five cents on January 1, 2015. For additional information, please visit www.cupertino.org/reusebags or call 408.777.3354.

End Cigarette Litter or Pay the Price

Cigarette butts are one of the most costly forms of litter. On March 15, 2013, the City Council adopted a litter ordinance (9.18.210 CMC) that includes fines from $100 - $500 to litterers for damage to the environment and the expense they bring to the City. Cigarettes are often thrown from cars, discarded in parking lots, and other open areas outside. When tobacco products are disposed in the environment they often make their way to the storm drain system and into local creeks and the Bay. Studies show, 32% of the litter found in drain inlets are tobacco related products. Cigarette litter is unsightly and expensive for our city to clean up and it’s hazardous to waterways and wildlife. Cigarette filters are composed of cellulose acetate, a form of plastic which persists in the environment. Cigarette butts release toxic chemicals into the water and animals and marine life often mistake cigarette filters for food. If you smoke, please do your part. Always use your car ashtray, carry a pocket ashtray, or seek out a public ashtray or cigarette receptacle.

Is Your Bin Too Full?

To avoid a missed pickup on garbage day and to help prevent the spread of litter, be sure that your garbage, recycling, and compost bins are always completely closed when placed at the curb. Do not overfill containers to the point where they cannot close all the way. An overflowing container may result in the garbage company not emptying your container, for concerns that it may be overweight. In addition, a container that is not completely closed is exposed to rodents, birds, and wind that could remove the materials from your container, create unsightly litter and cause the spread of garbage to the storm drain system. Garbage that enters a storm drain is not removed or treated, but flows to our local creeks and Bay, which can be hazardous to water quality and animal and aquatic life. If you have excess garbage, recycling, or organic material, consider putting it out over multiple service days or call Recology at 408.725.4020, for extra weight tags (for a fee) or to see if you can use one of your free On-Call pickup days.
Car Washing Tips to Save the Bay
Wash cars on an unpaved surface where dirty water won’t flow into a driveway, street, gutter or storm drain. Empty your bucket of soapy water into a sink or toilet. Minimize soap and water use. Even biodegradable soap is toxic to wildlife. Clean brake dust off of wheels with paper towels, and dispose of towels in the trash. Wash your car at a professional car wash where rinse water is recycled. A Watershed Watch Discount Card is available at www.mywatershedwatch.org.

Dispose of Pet Waste Properly
Pet waste is among the common stormwater pollutants that contaminate creeks. The storm drain system is a network of gutters, pipes and open channels designed for flood control. It directs runoff – untreated – from streets and parking lots to our local creeks. Polluted stormwater degrades our water quality and can kill or damage plants, fish and wildlife. In your yard or walking your dog, it’s easy to do the right thing. Please bring a dog duty bag or a used plastic bag on walks and always pick up after your pets.

Helping Geese Migrate
Here’s why

Pilot Program to Manage Canadian Geese in Memorial Park to begin in May
Goose droppings are problem in Cupertino, particularly at Memorial Park. Following public discussion and direction provided by City Council, Cupertino’s Department of Public Works is moving forward with using dogs to harass the geese. Starting in mid-May through mid-June, specially trained, dogs will be at Memorial Park to manage and reduce the geese population in Memorial Park. Through this pilot program, we’re hopeful that the park will become more people friendly as a result.

Dogs will be under the control of a trained dog handler at all times and will be leashed or kenneled when they are not actively working. In the past, the City has employed other methods such as the use of a mute swan decoy (a natural predator), sprinklers, and use of black dye in the Memorial Park pond.

For questions or more information about this pilot program, visit cupertino.org/geesemanagement.

A Green Teen Project
Ardak Askhatova, Cupertino Library Teen Advisory Board member
This spring, big things are sprouting up at the Cupertino Library. Most notably, the addition of a full-scale, self-contained vegetable garden housed in the library’s courtyard! The garden is part of the new Green Teen Garden Project, an initiative designed to help teach gardening and green living skills to local high school teenagers. This project developed by Teen Services Librarian, Matthew Lorenzo, and his Teen Advisory Board (TAB), will enhance the courtyard’s appearance and benefit the community by creating a space where gardening workshops could be held.

In order to gain support for the project, the TAB did a presentation for the Cupertino Library Commission. Two raised garden beds, protective fencing, and a compost bin were erected, and, in keeping with the project’s green theme, teens recycled empty 2-liter soda bottles and soil to create seed sprouters. Plants were cultivated as organically as possible and for the inaugural growing season, vegetation will consist of cucumbers, lettuce, peppers, tomatoes, beans, cilantro and basil.

Teens involved in the project are responsible for the daily maintenance and upkeep of the garden. Providing additional assistance, Cupertino’s chapter of the Master Gardeners organization will lead ongoing workshops for the teens. Yamagami’s Nursery has donated all of the soil and amendments; Reenee’s Seeds has contributed all of the seeds and sprouts; the City of Cupertino’s Public Works Department installed the irrigation system, and donated the compost bins. The entire project is being generously funded by the Friends of the Cupertino Library.
