Shakespeare in the Park 2006

THE TEMPEST
Written by William Shakespeare
Directed by Kenneth Kelleher

Performances Saturday and Sunday evenings at 7:30pm in Cupertino’s beautiful Memorial Park. July 15, 16, 22, 23, 29, and 30

A shipwreck at sea strands the magician Prospero, the exiled Duke of Milan, on a strangely magical island. With the help of the spirit Ariel, Prospero’s daughter-Miranda falls in love with Prince Ferdinand. Meanwhile, Prospero’s monstrous servant Caliban conspires with the court clown, with hilarious results. In the end, with the help of much magic, Prospero’s Dukedom is restored, enemies are forgiven, and Ariel is set free.

Cupertino teams up with the San Francisco Shakespeare Festival to present the 11th season of Free Shakespeare in Memorial Park. Please bring the family to enjoy a free evening of great entertainment under the stars!

For more information, call The San Francisco Shakespeare Festival 800.978.PLAY
Cousin Pat and I went to the Gold Country this spring, for the annual AAUW Home Tour. For those of you who have not traveled to that area in the spring you have missed a lovely treat. The rolling green hills, waving wild flowers, sparkling little creeks that often go through picturesque towns are all a delight to see. Step back into a bit of early California history: Sutter Creek, Jackson, Drytown, Volcano, Fiddletown. Amador City has one of the best miniature gauge outdoor train setups I have ever seen. There is a wonderful little museum on the former D’Agostino winery property in the Shenandoah Valley area outside Sutter Creek.

This year the Home Tour presented 4 or 5 homes, including an 1863 antebellum style in Ione, but the feature attraction was the Preston Castle. My dad and Pat’s dad both worked at the Castle; dad was in construction for a time and Uncle Claude was the farm manager at Preston from 1925 to 1944. Grandmother, Anna Galgioso Regnart, ran a small restaurant in Ione during the Great Depression in the 1930’s to earn money to help save the family fruit ranch in Cupertino. Aunt Alice helped out at the restaurant and met her husband-to-be when he came into the restaurant for a meal after working as a gold dredger on the nearby river.

Armed with bits of family history, Pat and I journeyed to Ione and arrived at the steps of Preston Castle – known in the old days as Preston School of Industry – for juvenile offenders – age 8 to 18. We asked the docent at the door, “What in Heaven’s name could an 8 year old possibly have done to be sent to this place?!” The docent said, “Probably orphaned or abandoned and stole something, probably to eat.” We exchanged looks of horror and then he said, “Before Preston was built, the kids got sent to San Quentin.”

We climbed wide stone steps and entered into huge rooms, full of large gaping holes in the crumbling plaster walls and 20 foot high ceilings. (The red brick castle was abandoned in the 1960’s, when the newer and higher security prison was built at the base of the hill.) The Preston Castle Foundation is attempting to raise money to put a new roof on the entire structure – it is a huge undertaking. Complete restoration would run into the millions. It was with mixed feelings that we wandered through the two floors that were open to the tour; a basement area that served as a chapel and housed the water driven pumps that drove an elevator to the top floors, with the aid of someone standing outside manning a large valve to regulate the water pressure and stop and start the water, pushing the elevator up or down. There was a large, empty mess hall and an infirmary with two rusted bed frames with hand cranks that still worked, and a shower area with a small tiled insert for an armed guard to stand, monitoring the boys. Even though only two floors were open, it was easy to get lost or disoriented in the maze of rooms – the dim, almost spooky interior was partly due to the overcast day but there was an oppressive feel to the place. Outside, a guard tower soared into the air over a hundred feet, overlooking the newer prison buildings down the hill which are completely surrounded with high wire fences and topped with rolls of barbed wire. There were a large number of men on this year’s Home Tour, – obviously drawn by curiosity or possibly former workers at Preston or relatives of former staff.

A few days later, we reminisced further about our fathers and their time working at Preston. Pat had talked to her older brother Bill, who along with sister, Peg, had been born in Ione and Bill remembered their father’s days as the farm manager. It was so different back in the 1930’s, he said. There were no high walls, no barbed wire, not even any fences. The grounds were pristine. There was the large farm where much of the produce was raised for the boys and staff and big barns with animals; cows, pigs, chickens. Some of the boys worked in the tailor shop, making uniforms – the boys at Preston dressed like military cadets. They all learned some kind of trade during their time at the facility so that when they left they could earn a living and hopefully not return or go back to a life of crime. That philosophy worked well. There were very few boys who left the property without permission until it was time for them to go. For some, it was the closest place to a home they had ever had. Bill remembered his dad dressed in riding breeches, going about the farm on his horse, checking on the work and the boys. How different, indeed, than it is now.

One of the houses on the tour was the Preston superintendent’s home – next to the warden’s home, just a short walk down the hill from the Castle – both beautiful old places, no longer used by staff. Ione and Preston represent different eras – from the Gold Rush days on into the turn of the 20th century and through 2 World Wars, the Great Depression, and on into modern times. Now, just outside of town, there is a golf course and blocks and blocks of new homes – its a bit of culture/architecture shock. Ione, Preston and the other towns of the Gold Country are well worth a visit.
Need to Drain Your Pool?

Residents that need to drain their pool or spa this season should be aware of steps that must be taken to protect city creeks. Don’t drain pool water to the streets. If pool water is pumped directly into the gutter, it will flow into a storm drain, and straight into one of Cupertino’s creeks. The chlorine and pool chemicals in pool water are a threat to aquatic creatures in the creeks – so draining into the gutter is prohibited by City ordinance.

Pool water must be pumped into the home’s sanitary sewer “clean-out.” Before a pool is drained, the pool owner or the pool technician should call the Cupertino Sanitary District at 253-7071. To obtain a brochure to guide you through the pool draining process, call 408.777.3241 or pick one up at the lobby in City Hall.

2006 Garage Sale Date Set

The Citywide Garage Sale will be held on September 23 and 24 this year. Look for sale details in next month’s Scene and on our website at www.cupertino.org in the coming months.

Cars and Pollution

The Exxon Valdez and similar spills are not the only way oil contaminates our water. Regular people contribute more motor oil into waterways than oil tankers do. Further, when you wash your car on pavement or in the driveway, soapy water, motor oil, copper, zinc, lead and other heavy metals are washed down the storm drains – which bypass the wastewater treatment plants – and flow straight into creeks and the Bay. Few people know that more than 500 species of wildlife live in the Bay. Car pollutants disrupt the Bay’s natural habitat and can be toxic to fish eggs and embryos. It is important to always recycle used motor oil and to keep your car well maintained to prevent oil and other leaks.

Phone Books – Recycling Tip

Residents, keep in mind that old phone books can be recycled by placing them in the blue recycling cart for collection by Los Altos Garbage Company. Businesses and apartment complexes currently participating in paper recycling can also recycle phone books along with their other paper. Call 777.3241 for information on setting up a paper-recycling program at your business or apartment complex.

Grasscycling

Grasscycling is the natural recycling of grass by leaving clippings on the lawn when mowing. Grass clippings decompose quickly, returning valuable nutrients back into the soil. This will reduce the amount of fertilizer needed, and will cut down on the yard waste that will need to be collected for composting. For best results, use a mulching mower. Follow the “1/3 rule”: a lawn should be mowed so that no more than 1/3 of the grass height is cut at any one mowing. This prevents an unsightly “hay-like” appearance. Mow when the grass is dry to prevent clippings from clumping in piles on the lawn. Grass roots and stems are the primary cause of thatch, not grass clippings.

Freecycle Network™

The Freecycle Network™ is a grassroots movement of people who are giving and getting stuff for free. The Freecycle Network provides individuals and non-profits an electronic forum to “recycle” unwanted items. One person’s trash can truly be another’s treasure.

How it works

When you want to find a new home for something – whether it’s a chair, a fax machine, piano, or an old door – you simply send an e-mail offering it to members of your Freecycle group. Or, maybe you’re looking to acquire something yourself. Simply respond to a member’s offer, and you just might get it. After that, it’s up to the giver to decide who receives the gift and to set up a pickup time for passing on the treasure.

One main rule:

Everything posted must be free, legal, and appropriate for all ages. Non-profit organizations also benefit from The Freecycle Network. Post the item or items you want to give away and a local organization can help you get it to someone in need.

Each local group is run by a local volunteer moderator. Membership is free. To sign up, go to http://groups.yahoo.com/group/Cupertino FreeCycle/. For more information visit http://freecycle.org/.

DID YOU KNOW?
During 2005 the City of Cupertino experienced 161 residential burglaries. Many of the suspects entered through an unlocked window or door. Many times the house had an alarm but was not turned on. A large number of burglaries involved taking gold jewelry from the master bedroom.

What can you do?
• Secure all doors and windows.
• Secure jewelry in a quality safe.
• If you have an alarm, use it.
• Report suspicious persons and/or activity, or illegal solicitors in your neighborhood by calling 911.
• Be an active member of Neighborhood Watch.

Together we can make a difference!
People often ask where to find emergency shelters after an earthquake. The answer is... it depends on what's damaged. Schools are possible sites. The American Red Cross surveys schools for potential emergency shelters. Cupertino has also designated Quinlan Community Center as a possible site. Before being opened as a shelter, each site must pass a damage inspection. This will take hours. Don’t assume a particular site will be available and don’t go to a location you think might be a shelter until you’ve confirmed that fact by 1) Listening to radio broadcasts on KCBS 740AM or KLIV 1590AM, 2) Finding the information posted in the “Emergency Information” section of the Cupertino website www.cupertino.org or 3) A Cupertino volunteer (Block Leader, Community Emergency Response Team, Medical Reserve Corps or Amateur Radio) has provided you the “official” information from the City.

Here is some other important information about shelters:

- They do not allow pets.
- They are staffed by volunteers – who were also impacted by the earthquake – so may not be open for 1-2 days.
- They cannot supply prescription medication.
- Cots are placed approximately 9 feet apart.
- No items that could be considered weapons are allowed inside.
- There are not enough shelter sites identified which means that there could be overcrowding. (If you belong to a church or other location a large meeting area and kitchen facility, and would like to offer it as a shelter site, contact the Office of Emergency Services right away!)

Plan with your neighbors. You may be able to avoid using shelters and stay close to home with family and friends instead of in a place where you may not know anyone.

Wireless Network Security

Andy Radle, CISSP
Technology, Information, and Communication Commissioner

With the large number of Cupertino homes with wireless LANs and the MetroFi wireless network covering the city, it is important to remember to be secure when using wireless networks. In this article, I’ll describe the risks of two common situations in Cupertino and share some key ways to improve your security in those environments.

It is pretty common for people to setup a wireless network at home to share their Internet connection across multiple machines. Many people today do have a firewall between their home network and the Internet but don’t realize that their home machines may be vulnerable via the wireless network. The wireless LAN signal in a typical house doesn’t stay within the house and can often be picked up in neighboring houses, on the street, and further with the right antenna. This can lead to your information being compromised and your Internet connection being used unless you protect your computers and wireless network.

A second common situation you see in Cupertino is the mobile computer user connected to a wireless(Wi-Fi) hotspot at a local business or using the MetroFi network. When connected your machine is exposed to other wireless users and possibly the whole Internet.

How do I protect myself in these situations? The first recommendation is to configure firewall software on each of your machines, including home machines that aren’t on the wireless part of your home network. This helps keep other people from accessing your systems whether via your home wireless or at a Wi-Fi hotspot by blocking connections to your computer that you don’t want to allow. Firewall software comes with most of the major operating systems today and there are many commercial and free firewall packages that offer additional features. See your software provider(s) documentation for security configuration information.

The host firewall can provide a lot of protection for your computer and its information but doesn’t keep others from using your Internet connection or potentially “seeing” information on your home wireless network. To prevent this, you should configure some form of encryption for your wireless access point. If your equipment supports it, use WPA(Wi-Fi Protected Access) with a good password(key). The web site https://www.grc.com/passwords.htm discusses and generates good passwords(keys). If your equipment doesn’t support WPA, use WEP(Wired Equivalent Privacy) encryption. WEP is much less secure than WPA but it will deter people from trying to connect to your network.

Wireless networks provide great freedom and convenience but can expose your information if some precautions aren’t taken. In this short space, I’ve only touched on a couple of ways to protect your computers and information and encourage Cupertino residents with wireless LANs to take these few easy security steps.
